Project Experience

PokeDex – API   Northampton, United Kingdom

Express, CSS, Handlebars, Node.js, Responsive Design

Using multiple API information of Pokémon or item based on its ID are collected and presented in a visually pleasing way that is adjusted based on display size. The CSS on this website shows dynamic behaviours based on the information shown. A search bar is also implemented using an auto-complete plug-in to increase user accessibility.

Genshin Impact App   Northampton, United Kingdom

Express, CSS, Handlebars, Node.js

Genshin impact is a game that has a unique character-building system, this app that I created allows for players of the game to visually plan these build paths based on information from other creaters that I have extracted using a google-sheets-API. Using a draggable plug-in I have created a drop and drop grid that allows for specific items to be places into certain grid sections as well as the necessary text area's and buttons.

Personal Portfolio   Northampton, United Kingdom

React, CSS, JEST, Responsive Design

A personal portfolio website that was created using a multiple of packages to cater to the user experience. Using media queries has allowed for a responsive view across all devices. An introductory to JEST can be seen through the docs on this website. This is a website that is constantly being looked at and updated based on feedback.
